Read a story about a class outing.

Sally and her classmates will have an outing tomorrow. 'What would you like to eat?' Miss Fong asks. 'I'd like ham,' Sally replies. 'I'd like bread,' Tom says. Miss Fong listens and prepares a shopping list.

Miss Fong takes the children to the supermarket. The children look at the shopping list and help get the food. Sally gets two bottles of water. Tom is short and cannot reach the juice. 'How many cartons of orange juice would you like?' the shop assistant asks. 'I'd like three cartons of orange juice, please,' Tom replies. There are four bags of bread, fifteen slices of ham and thirty bags of salad in the trolley. There are only fifteen children in the class. The children ask Miss Fong about the bags of salad. 'It's a surprise!' says Miss Fong.

Then, Miss Fong asks the children to put one bag of salad in each lunch box. There are fifteen lunch boxes but there are thirty bags of salad. The children ask about the salad again. 'It's a surprise!' says Miss Fong.

The next day, the children arrive at Green Hill Zoo. There are a lot of giraffes. 'The giraffes love salad. Let's feed them,' says the zookeeper. 'This is the surprise!' smiles Miss Fong.

Text type: Shopping lists

This is Miss Fong's shopping list. A shopping list reminds us of what we need to buy.
